SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS VERDICT IN FLORIST CASE

Decision Handed Down Monday Giving Darlington Verdict of $4,966.88

STARTED SUIT IN 1926

Case Attracted Much Attention Among Florists of the Country

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 15.—The much-discussed law suit brought by the Darlington green houses, of this borough, against the Bucks County Public Service Company, now a part of the Philadelphia Electric Company, was finally decided Monday when the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania affirmed the judgment of the Bucks county court which carried a verdict for $4,966.88 for the plaintiff.

The suit, since it was started on Dec. 31, 1926, in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks County, has attracted the attention of florists on one side and public utilities on the other, throughout the United States. It was a test case in which a florist sought damages to his plants, alleged to have been caused by gas that escaped from leaky mains.

Throughout the trial of the suit the Doylestown florist was represented by Thomas Ross, who waged a well-planned legal battle that brought to Doylestown the leading experts of the United States in gas and floriculture before and during the trials.

With the completion of the case by the decision of the Supreme Court yesterday, another damage suit brought by the Darlington green houses against the Philadelphia Suburban Gas and Electric Company, filed in October, 1929, will be started on its way to trial. In the suit to be argued now damages to the extent of approximately $40,000 will be sought from the defendant company for alleged gas damage. The suit has been held up pending disposition of the first suit by the Supreme Court.

On Dec. 31, 1926, the Darlington green houses brought suit for damages aggregating $130,000. The statement of claim was filed on July 14, 1927. Several arguments were held in argument court and the case was continued several times until it was tried for the first time on January 21, 1929. Five days later the jury in civil court returned a verdict for $40,000 and costs in favor of the Darlington green houses. The case was tried before the late Judge William C. Ryan.

The defendant company was granted a new trial by Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, on December (Continued on Page 6)

PUBLISH NOMINATIONS AND VOTE COUNT IN COURIER'S CAMPAIGN

Active Candidates Slow Making Entries; Some in Today's List Are Workers in Name Only; All Urged to Build Up Totals for Next Count On Monday

Today appears the first list of nominations and first vote count in The Courier's big "Everybody Wins Something" Gold Gift campaign.

Nominations are not closed. In fact, today there are almost as many prizes as there are genuine active candidates. Opportunity without a handicap is here today for new entries who will "carry on."

Many who have been nominated have failed, so far, to turn in more than one subscription. They are, so far, candidates in name only, nothing more.

Subscriptions Will Win

Candidates who will not produce subscriptions can not hope to win. The more subscriptions you can produce the more votes you earn. The free coupons appearing in The Courier from day to day are valuable only in the degree in which you enhance your vote score in subscriptions. There is absolutely no hope in coupons alone.

PEACE VALLEY PHEASANTRY, NEAR CHALFONT, IS ONE OF LARGEST OF ITS KIND IN EASTERN UNITED STATES; AN OUTSTANDING ENTERPRISE

Thousands of Young Pheasants Are Being Hatched at The Present Time — State Game Commissioners and U. S. Authorities Frequently Visit the Show-Place

CHALFONT, April 15.—A pheasant farm of distinction is the Peace Valley Pheasantry, less than a mile north of this borough, and operated and owned by Selwyn W. Kesler, who has been raising pheasants for many years on the Pacific coast and in various other sections of the United States.

So rapidly has the business grown at the Peace Valley Pheasantry that it will soon be one of the outstanding enterprises of Bucks county although it is already the largest pheasantry of its type in the eastern United States. At the present time the breeding season is on and during the months of March, April, May and June visitors are not allowed except those who have official business. Thousands of young pheasants are being hatched at the present time by incubation system that was perfected by Mr. Kesler.

Approaching the 100-acre farm north of Chalfont, the visitor can get a glimpse of the immensity of the pheasantry which covers many acres.

The pen and field equipment at Peace Valley Farm is rather unusual. The breeding pens number over 100, the smallest being 24 square feet for five or six hens and one cock. There is a luxuriant growth of clover and grass, with fine shrubbery in each pen. The pens are occupied only four months of the year during egg laying, and they are all kept in first class condition. There are six main alleys running through the long rows of pens.

Both State Game Commission members and game authorities from the United States government have made numerous trips to the Peace Valley Pheasantry and have pronounced the pen construction and arrangement as being among the finest of any in the United States.

The rearing fields each cover 12 acres, with inch mesh wire and a broad band of galvanized iron on top, making it vermin proof. About one month before delivery the young birds are transferred to a covered holding pen 150 by 1,000 feet and wire covered. Those kept for breeders are turned out into open ranges of several acres at this time.

"We do not maintain a zoo or a menagerie, although we raise many of the fancy birds," Mr. Kesler said yesterday. "Neither are we dealers. We devote our entire time to the proper breeding and rearing of pheasants. Our birds are probably the largest and finest for their age that have ever been produced."

One of the finest and best known clubs for sportsmen in America, the Blooming Grove Hunting and Fishing Club, at Glen Eyre, Pa., organized over sixty years ago, has appointed the Peace Valley Pheasantry as their official breeder.

Representatives of the club paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Kesler at the pheasantry some months ago, and upon seeing the birds their game committee immediately ordered over 1,000 pheasants for trial. As a result of the trial order the pheasantry received a standing order that calls for several thousand each season. The birds are shipped to Glen Eyre by truck from Chalfont. Another large customer is the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, Woodmont, Md.

"Our specialty is in supplying clubs of the better kind with birds of the best kind," Mr. Kesler said.

The ten weeks old birds at the pheasantry are completely feathered and ready to turn out wild or into rearing fields for later liberation. They are able to take care of themselves at that age and it is quite usual to turn them out by themselves as early as five or six weeks with perfect results in open fields, with only natural or artificial cover against sudden heavy rain.

Deliveries of full grown birds are made beginning Sept. 1. All ringnecks, are hatched early, not carrying hatchlings. (Continued on Page 4)

START DAMAGE SUITS AS RESULTS OF CRASHES

Actions Brought by Motorists Against Those Alleged At Fault

ONE MOTOR CAR RUINED

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 15.—William H. Charret, his wife, Catherine Charret, and her small son, John Yasen-chok, of Richland township, have entered a $5,000 damage suit against Orlando Ricci, in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

It is alleged that on December 17, 1930, the plaintiff, William H. Charret, was driving his car east on West Broad street, Quakertown, and at the intersection of Eighth and W. Broad street, the plaintiff's car was struck by an automobile driven by the defendant, Orlando Ricci. Charret avers that Ricci was driving west on West Broad street and operated his car in a careless and negligent manner.

Charret's automobile, a five passenger sedan, had its frame broken and was damaged to such an extent that it would not pay to have it repaired, he states. He also alleges that he sustained injuries to his ankle and suffered cuts and bruises on his legs. He claims damages amounting to $1500.

As the result of the collision, one of the plaintiffs, John Yasen-chok, was injured. He received a broken rib and a deep gash above his left eye. His mother, Mrs. Charret claims damages to the extent of $2,000 in his behalf.

Mrs. Charret, who avers that she suffered injuries and that her earning capacity was impaired, claims damages amounting to $1500.

Two damage suits based on accidents alleged to have been the results of careless and negligent operating of automobile, were filed in the Court of Common Pleas here.

Raymond Mich, a Bedminster butcher, has been sued for damages amounting to $3,000, by Anna Bonk and her husband, E. J. Bonk. They alleged that on October 11, 1930, while riding in their car on the Lackawanna Trail near Curley Hill, a truck, driven by John Dugan, who was in the employ of Mich, carelessly operated, collided with them. Mrs. Bonk avers that she suffered shock and that her neck and back were sprained.

Her husband claims their car was damaged amounting to the extent of $300.

Herman Schaff has started suit for damages against the Branch Storage Company. The damages claimed in this suit amount to $10,000. Schaff alleges that on December 15, 1930, while walking along the highway from Quakertown to Trumbauersville, he was run down by a truck. He also avers that his injuries necessitated his confinement in a hospital and his earning power diminished.

REVERE WOMAN, 60, SHOT TWICE THROUGH RIGHT BREAST; HUSBAND ADMITS QUARREL BUT DENIES THE MURDER; SAYS WIFE ATTEMPTED SUICIDE EARLIER IN DAY

Couple Lived Together 20 Years and Most of Time Were Residents of Section Where Tragedy Occurred—Room, Police Claim, Showed Evidence of a Struggle — Pistol Found On Bureau On Opposite Side of Room From Where Body Lay—Husband Says He and Wife Accused Each Other While Quarreling.

REVERE, April 15.—A woman believed murdered was found dead in the bedroom of her home, two miles east of here, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were two bullet wounds in the body.

Dead:

Mrs. Minnie Allaire, 60, wife of Sylvester Allaire, 50.

The bullets were from a 32-calibre pistol, and it is believed that the woman was shot in the room where she was found dead.

Police say the room showed evidence of a struggle having taken place. The furniture was disarranged and the pistol from which it is believed the fatal shots were fired, was lying upon a bureau on the opposite side of the room from where the body was discovered.

Sylvester Allaire, husband of the woman, is being detained by State Police for questioning. Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, Bristol, is also investigating the case.

The Allaire couple had lived together for 20 years, eleven of which they had resided here in Nockamixon Township. So far as neighbors or friends of the couple are concerned, they lived together peacefully.

NO FARM LOANS FOR BUCKS COUNTY FARMERS

Federal Board Holds There Is No Need For It

CROPS NOT AFFECTED

"A review of the crop yields in Bucks county does not indicate that serious crop loss occurred therein, and we can see no justification for making these loans available in your county."

This is part of the message received by County Farm Agent W. P. Greenawalt, at Doylestown, from C. W. Warburton, secretary of the Federal Drought Relief Committee, in reply to a letter concerning the loaning of money on chattel mortgages to Bucks county farmers for the purpose of buying seed and fertilizer.

"This," he wrote further, "is in accord with our general practice in the handling of these seed loan appropriations."

"The purpose of the appropriation is to render assistance in those sections where farmers suffered serious losses of crops from drought or storm the previous year, and where the need for financing is beyond the ability of the local agents to meet. I do not believe that this situation exists in Bucks county."

"Our figures show that the yield of corn was reduced about 25 per cent. below the average for the preceding five years, and the yield of hay about 10 per cent. Yields of wheat, oats, buckwheat and potatoes were all above the five year average. When we contrast this with some of the Pennsylvania counties to the west and south of Bucks, where corn yields were reduced 50 per cent. to 75 per cent., and hay yields 20 per cent. to 35 per cent., the difference in conditions is readily apparent."

Mr. Greenawalt said this morning that he had received but two applications for loans.

It is perhaps not generally known that before a federal loan is made on a chattel mortgage the farmer must have other creditors agree that the chattel mortgage shall be paid before their claims, it was stated.

AIR LINES BECOME SAFER

Air tragedies like that which took the lives of Knute Rockne and seven others exaggerate the dangers of flying in the public mind. They give the air-timid the idea that when one leaves the ground the odds are against a safe return to earth. And many are the air-timid.

But the facts are against this distorted idea of the hazards of aviation. Reduced to cold mathematical figures, flying is already safer than railroad travel was until a few years ago and, if some basis of comparison were available, it might be found that a Sunday afternoon auto ride is beset with more dangers to life and limb than a transcontinental journey by air.

During the last six months of 1930 scheduled transport planes flew 51,482,633 passenger miles with but one fatal accident, costing two lives—one death for each 25,741,316 passenger miles flown, representing an improvement in the direction of safety of 1,000 per cent over the preceding six months.

Scheduled mail and express operations during the last half of last year increased their mileage by one-third and at the same time reduced their fatal accidents from 15 during the corresponding period of 1929 to three. Comparison of these two periods just one year apart shows a drop of 50 per cent in accidents of all kinds.

Aviation did not kill with impunity the world's greatest football coach—the Kansas accident will delay many air conversions—yet the air transports have noticed no loss of business as a consequence.

POWER BOARD CONTROVERSY

The case instituted at the instance of the Senate to test its right to recall a nomination once certified to the president promises to go down in history with the famous controversies of the Johnson and Cleveland administrations.

Eminent counsel—former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, for the president, and former Ambassador John W. Davis, once Democratic presidential nominee, for the Senate—guarantee its lustre. But of more importance is the fact that it makes, in effect, the President and the Senate opposing litigants.

The controversy touches an issue of the highest importance to the American constitutional plan, the rights of the executive and the Senate, respectively, over appointments and dismissals. The Senate is seeking to render void its confirmation of the President's appointment of George Otis Smith to the Federal Power Commission chairmanship. The administration holds that the revocation of confirmation once certified would give the Senate an unconstitutional power of removal.

When the nation was younger the executive and legislative branches of the Federal Government—each jealous of the other's power—were often in conflict. There is danger of a revival of some of these old animosities and jealousies, the trend in that direction having gone as far as a mutual exchange of "charges."

Four Hours Sleep May Be Plenty---Ho-Hum!

The Venerable Doctor, Practicing Medicine at 97, Can Get Along Without His Good Eight Hours a Night, but Winifred Black Would Like a Little Nap—Now!

By WINIFRED BLACK.

I S four hours of sleep a day is enough for the average man and woman?

Can a regular, every-day business or professional man, and a regular every-day wife and housekeeper or clerk and stenographer get along on four hours' sleep out of twenty-four?

Dr. Wilson A. Allen of Rochester, Minnesota, says it is.

And Dr. Allen really ought to know.

He declares he hasn't slept more than four hours out of the twenty-four in the last fifty-eight years.

And Dr. Allen is ninety-seven years old and still practicing medicine and making a mighty good thing of it too—so his patients say.

Well, now, Dr. Allen, you are you, and the rest of us—we are just us—that's all.

You show by your activity at your age that you have unusual vigor and endurance.

Why the regular every-day man thinks he's wonderful if he keeps on working till he is seventy, and he feels that every day after seventy he's living on borrowed time.

Not really living either—just existing.

Porridge and weak coffee for breakfast, soup for lunch and a nice little omelet and a glass of milk for dinner.

A walk around the block after breakfast—the same walk around the same block after dinner, a nap from ten to eleven, another nap from one to three, to bed by eight o'clock, anyhow.

WINIFRED BLACK

Hours of sitting in the sunshine—not seeing, not hearing, not thinking—just remembering.

Just waving day dreams about the time when he was young and strong, and handsome, and his first sweetheart told him she fell in love with him the first minute she had a glimpse of him.

Old songs, old verses, old proverbs—running in his mind.

Faces he knew long and long ago, rising suddenly before him, through the mist of years, faces that smile in a sort of knowing way—the old man wonders what it is that makes the people smile so knowingly, just because they've been away from the humdrum of living for so long.

He forgets the people he's known since he was sixty, but does he forget the boys who went swimming with him, or the girls whose initials he carved beside his own in the wild plum tree down by the brook?

Not he, nor anyone like him. Why he can tell the color of the dress his favorite teacher wore on that Friday afternoon when he "spoke the piece" about Marcos Bozaris who died such an exceedingly distressing death.

He can fairly taste the apple turn-over his grandmother used to make for him, and the cheese that he stole from the cheese dish to go with them.

"Long, long ago, long, long ago—"

That's his favorite song.

But you, Dr. Wilson, here you are breaking all the rules and scuttling around like a beardless boy.

"Well, if we could all be like you it would pay to stop sleeping so much—ho-hum—the very thought makes me sleepy."

Bring me a book of verse, and a little fruit, and make me a hot cup of tea—where's my slumber robe, would it not be nice to have a good nap?

Even if I did sleep seven perfectly good hours last night.

How do you feel about it?

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XLVIII.

OLD Chief Fury, adipose with years and soft living, stamped in and began to bluster. It was some time before anyone could make out what he was trying to say. Then it became clear that he was ordering the immediate arrest of Robert Trent for the murder of the Baroness Von Wies.

Walter listened for a time, the stubborn line showing about his chin.

Out Of The Question.

"Trent is a sick man, Chief. Out of the question to bring him in here tonight. He's under guard." "You're telling me, are you? I'm chief of police in this town!" "Oh, tell him," Bin cried, "to wait till morning. Tell him, Walter, that we'll have the real murder by morning!"

The old Chief glared at her. "If this young fellow brings in a killer and it's not Bob Trent I'll—why, I'll quit! What do you think of that, eh? Quit, I said. Quit cold. Eh, what do you think of that?" "Okay, Chief," Reynolds put in, grinning. "No backing down. We're your witnesses. And what do YOU think of that?" "Eh?" muttered the Chief, his face going purple.

Reynolds nodded to Bin—no Walter, and there was a general movement among them. Bin went away almost light hearted. "The old Chief had been wanting an out, he mused; he had it now. Would he make good his threat? Well, Reynolds would see that he did. Reynolds would spread the story; he would make the Chief a laughing stock otherwise.

Only it depended upon her. She was the one who had boasted that the real murderer would be brought in before noon tomorrow. Perhaps Walter did not believe this could be done. Perhaps, all things considered, it could not be done!

Bin went to her room at Eagle's Nest and sat there a long time in deep thought. Certain things stood out: faded photographs of a baby's face; Jane and William dancing together at the Wood City Inn; heel marks on the torn note they had found in the garden.

She went over the murder mystery step by step, trying to imagine herself as the guilty person. What would she have done exactly had she wished to remove a woman who had aroused her jealousy to the point of murderous frenzy? Sneaked into the garden—watched behind the rose vines. Rose vines were full of thorns and thorns tore a woman's flesh.

Bin retired at length, but not until after she had written a note to Carl Carey. A friendly little note—friendly and gay—but it said "Good-bye." "We just never could make a go of it, Carl dear. I like you lots, but not enough. You'll be leaving for the city soon—tomorrow I expect—and I won't be seeing

A Wonderful Opportunity Exists Here for More Real Energetic Folks to Enter and Carry on to a Victorious Finish

To Those Who Have Entered:

What are you doing to insure yourself of one of the really BIG Gold Prizes in this distribution? Are you doing YOUR part—or are you sitting back and hoping your friends will do it all? Up to now the majority of the votes that most of the candidates have received have been cast by subscribers who have been coming into the office in the regular course of business, paying up their subscriptions, and casting their votes to the credit of some one of the nominees. This should not be the case where the value of all prizes is considered. Every candidate should be doing his or her utmost toward making THEIR prize as big as possible. If your friends see that you are doing YOUR part, they will jump in and help you pile up a winning vote total; if, however, they see you are unappreciative and are expecting your friends to do it all, they will throw their support elsewhere. It's up to you, candidates. DO YOUR PART—your friends will do theirs.

To Those Who Have Not Entered:

To you who are still considering the Gift Distribution, RIGHT NOW is the time to send in your name and make your start. You never had—nor never will have—such an opportunity for making BIG MONEY quickly WITHOUT INVESTMENT OR RISK as you have in this $10,000 Gold Distribution. Clip out that nomination coupon; see that it reaches the Campaign Department immediately. YOU ARE GOING TO REGRET IT IF YOU DON'T. Remember this statement. And ACT NOW!

The pheasantry has a few fancy birds for ornamental or other purposes. Among the attractions of the pheasantry are the Japanese Silkie Bantams.

Entertains In Honor Of Miss Nellie Carney

Mrs. Albert G. Lochner recently entertained the operators of the Bristol

As Miss Carney opened each package, she realized she was the recipient of a "silk shower," by the many beautiful gifts given her.
The evening was spent in playing "500," and a delicious lunch was served. Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were:

Misses Nellie Carney, Margaret Rodgers, Edna King, Alvia Atkinson, Mary Roe, Agnes Stephenson, Dorothy Doan, Clara Stanley, Mrs. Thomas Elmhurst, Mrs. Katherine Peters, Mrs. C. L. Kline, Mrs. Myrtle Henry, Mrs. Albert Lochner.

Catholic Daughters Conduct Card Party

The card party held last evening by the Catholic Daughters of America, was most gratifying to the members of the committee in charge, who had made every effort to make this affair one of the largest parties of the season. The co-operation and response by the public was appreciated by the committee. Ten tables of "500" players were grouped in one of the large rooms of the home and twelve tables of pinochle players occupied another. The prizes on display for the selection of the successful contestants, were of the usual high standard and variety. In the game of "500," Miss Margaret McFadden, with a score of 3580 chose a beautiful linen table cloth. Miss Margaret Oliver, with high score of 753 in pinochle, selected a very pretty set of dishes. Other prizes consisted of kitchen utensils, clothes-hamper, glassware, stationery, men's awarded at the meeting to be held in the Grand Theatre, Saturday morning, May 9th.

Any additional information desired may be obtained from Mr. Green. Every year the judges have been compelled, oftentimes with much regret, to rule out of the contest several really meritorious productions, simply because the boys who designed them have not complied with the rules. It is, therefore, very important that the rules should be fully understood, by every boy, before he enters the contest. The men who have the contest in charge want to give every contestant

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I have been keeping steady company with a girl, whom I think very much of, for four or five months. For some reason her parents told her she could not see me any more.

I have received letters from her and have written her. I gave her a ring for Christmas and she gave me a gift. The ring was not an engagement ring—just a gift.

Should I return her letters and gift, and should she return mine? JAY.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

If a boy stands a girl up, should she quit him? If so, should she return his gift? I think quite a lot of the boy. TEXAS GIRL.

TEXAS GIRL: There can be no rigid law for such an incident. If the boy volunteers no explanation of his conduct, then it would be better to call it quits.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

We are two girls, 18 years old. We are very intimate friends and are both in love with the same fellow. Although he has a steady girl friend, he calls on us regularly.

Should we discontinue our supposed-to-be friendship, or else give him up altogether. For he says he is deeply in love with one of us. M. M.

M.: Your friend seems to be playing something of a fox game. Keeps you interested and guessing, doesn't he? Why not ask him outright to tell you which one it is that he cares for. And then I'd hand him a shock and let him know whichever one of you it may be, that his feelings are not reciprocated. Dear, dear, don't make young men like to play safe?

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am 18 and am not allowed to have boy friends; but I have a sister who is 20 and her boy friend is six years older. When they go to places he always asks me to go along. Sometimes I go and other times I don't. When I don't, he gets cross at me and when I do, my sister tells me about it when we are alone. CURLS.

CURLS: When you are asked to have your sister suggest a four-some. That would obviate all the difficulties and prevent your sister from being angry with you.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I have constantly read your advice to young girls and boys. I am very much in love with a young man who is 10 years my senior. He is 26 and I am almost 17. My parents took to him at first but people started to talk about him and they told me to stop seeing him. I see him often, though, when I go to a friend's house. We expect to be married as soon as I am old enough. BLUE-EYED.

BLUE-EYED: Are you perfectly sure that there is no basis for the gossip or is it a case of all smoke without any fire? If you are certain that this is so, then I would advise you to continue on a mere friendship basis until such time as your friend is able to claim you.

a square deal, but when a boy disregards the rules, whether it is done intentionally or not, in justice to the other participants, his drawing must be ruled out of the contest. The boys who enter the contest, are, therefore, urged to carefully read the rules, and comply strictly therewith.

Publish Nominations and Vote Count in Courier's Campaign

have value, but it is small when one considers that one subscription alone is equal to a whole bundle of coupons.

Nominations But Start
Simple nomination of a candidate does not mean anything. The nomination is but the first step, the starting point. Anyone content to rest after nomination will not get far in this election. Active work, honest effort, some attention to the business in hand and that alone can get votes, and votes win. And subscriptions mean votes.

With so few candidates entered, and so many of those not yet, at least, manifesting any real life or activity, the opportunity is here for more live ones to enter and "carry on" to win.

If two candidates are running for office they must have all the votes between them. The winner must have a majority—over half—of all the votes cast. But if five candidates seek the same office the winner only needs to have more than the next higher candidate.

Then, too, in this campaign "Everybody Wins Something." There are purses of real gold totaling many thousands of dollars, and, remember, too, the cash commission of 25%, paid all active non-prize winning participants. In an election for office only one candidate wins. In The Courier's Election, EVERYBODY WINS.

BENSALEM VICTIMS OF BRISTOL HIGH NINE

(By Leon Schiffer)

Bristol's baseball team engaged the Bensalem nine in its opening home and Lower Bucks County League tilt of the season on the local diamond yesterday afternoon and at the start of the fifth inning the Cardinal and Gray held an 11 to 4 advantage.

"Bill" Hart, one of Bristol's good right-handers, toed the slab for the first four innings, pitching good ball throughout the early sessions. However, ragged support in the fourth inning sent him into a state of wildness and Coach Townsend finally relieved him with Peirce. Dean hurried for the visitors and was hit freely.

Gaffney thrilled the crowd with a splendid exhibition of long distance clouting, getting a double and triple.

Bristol went into the lead in the opening inning. With none out, Pico was walked; Rockhill singled, forcing out Pico, and went to second on a pitched ball; Nicols popped to Deane; Gaffney tripled over Hughes's head, bringing in Rockhill; Britton brought Gaffney home with a screaming double; Hunter singled and Britton advanced to third, after which Dougherty doubled, bringing in Britton while Hunter was tagged out at home.

The remainder of the game was long and slow, and many substitutes were used by Coach Townsend.

Friday the local boys will journey to Fallsington where they will play the latter's baseball team.

TROUT SEASON OPENS IN PENNA. TODAY

HARRISBURG, Apr. 15—(INS)—Business, politics, worry over the depression, care and work of any kind today were abandoned by an army of Pennsylvanians.

Just about everything else paled into insignificance after a glance at the calendar.

Today was the opening of the trout fishing season.

And all over the state, anglers be-took themselves to well-stocked streams to whip the purring waters for speckled beauties. The walk-out from business and its cares knew no cases—it ran through the ranks of the state's citizenry from the humblest to the highest. Even Governor Gifford Pinchot abandoned the cares of state to make an excursion to his home at Millford and, in the philosophical sport of the disciples of Isaac Walton, lose himself from the bustle and tension of official life.

Pet flies and favorite rods were out early. Many of them have been ready for days and the more enthusiastic of the anglers were already camped at a previously-selected stream or pool when the season officially opened.

Excellent sport was forecast by officials of the State Fish Commission.

Streams over the state have been liberally stocked and only fish over seven inches have been transferred from the state hatcheries.

With water in most streams at medium height, the rivers and runs are reported in excellent condition and if weather conditions over the state remained good the opening day was expected to be one of the most favorable in years for large catches.

O. M. Deibler, state commissioner of fisheries, and other officials of the fish commission wished the anglers good sport and well-filled creels.

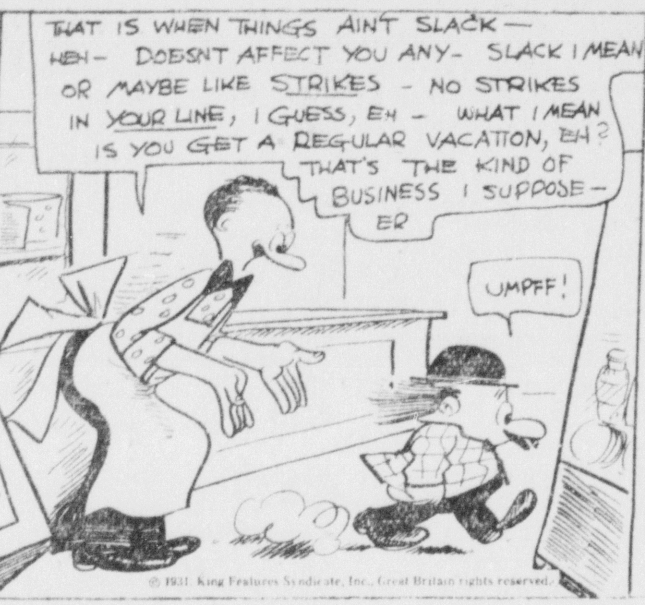

But, just in case—

Fish wardens, augmented by game wardens and state police, had instructions to keep close watch along the stocked streams for possible violations of the fish laws. A close check will be kept on all violators during the season, H. R. Stackhouse, executive secretary of the commission, said.

But few anglers, however, set out with any idea of violating the law, officials believed. All they asked was a quiet pool, fair weather and "an even break" with the wily trout.

That, indeed, were sport for kings.

BUX-MONTGOMERY LEAGUE UNDER WAY

LANSDALE, Apr. 15.—William E. Wolfe, coach and athletic director of Doylestown High School, was Saturday night elected president of the newly-organized Bux-Mont High School Athletic Conference composed of eight of the best known high schools in the suburban Philadelphia district. The conference will have charge of three sports, basketball, football and baseball.

The organization meeting was held in the Lansdale High School with representatives from every school in the conference present, including Doylestown, Quakertown, Perkasie-Sellersville, Souderton, Lansdale, Ambler, Springfield and Jenkintown.

The vice-president of the conference, elected last night, is William R. Parmer, supervising principal of the Jenkintown High School. The secretary and treasurer is Merritt Jeffers, coach and athletic director of Lansdale High School.

After all the rough edges had been ironed out after a discussion that took nearly two hours, the constitution and by-laws of the conference were adopted and the league formally organized.

Organization of the Bux-Mont Conference marks the beginning of the development of better rivalry between the schools who are members of the conference. Jenkintown and Springfield High, former members of the Suburban League, are the two new members of the conference in addition to Doylestown High, a charter member of the Bux-Mont, now back in the fold after cavorting in the speedy Eastern Pennsylvania Interscholastic League.

The new conference, it is understood, will be tried out for one year and if everything is rosy and the year is marked by the absence of jealousy and petty bickering, all of the three sports sponsored by the conference will be conducted.

Football cannot be tried out until 1932 because of the fact that most of the teams have the 1931 schedule booked. In baseball the first conference schedule will be played in the spring of 1932, there being a Bux-Mont League for baseball only, in operation this year, with Pennsburg High as a member. Pennsburg was not elected a member of the Bux-Mont Conference.

The Conference members prepared for the 1931 basketball schedule by appointing a schedule committee composed of William McAlpine, coach of the Jenkintown High School; John Barth, of Quakertown High and Paul L. Gruber, of Perkasie-Sellersville High.

The Conference basketball season is to start on December 18 and each school will be scheduled to play two games with every other team in the conference, one game at home and one away. The completed schedule will be compiled and sent to the schools in the conference in a few weeks.

Coaches in the Bux-Mont Conference were last night directed to submit a list of approved basketball officials living in their districts and send the lists to Coach McAlpine, at Jenkintown by April 16. From the combined lists the officials will be selected and assigned to the league games for the 1931-32 season.

It was also ordered that one-half of the yearly dues must be paid by May 1. The annual dues amount to $15 for each school in the Conference. The next meeting of the Conference will be held the first Wednesday in October.

Supreme Court Affirms Verdict in Florist Case

26, 1929. The second trial of the case was started on March 24, 1930, before Judge Harold Knight, of the Montgomery county courts, and a verdict was returned on April 3 in favor of the Darlingtons green houses for $4,966.88.

Both sides then applied for new trials and argument took place on June 23, 1930. On July 10, 1930, the plaintiff withdrew the application for a new trial. On August 4, 1930, Judge Knight overruled the motion for judgment N. O. V. and allowed the defendant an exception. The case was then appealed to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by the defendant company on August 12, 1930, and the case was argued in January, this year, resulting in yesterday's opinion handed down by that body in Philadelphia.

The defendant company in the trial of the case has been represented by Webster S. Achey, of Doylestown, who had associated with him the legal department heads of the defendant company. Both sides called experts of national fame in their lines.

DIVORCE COSTLY

SAN JOSE, Cal., Apr. 15.—Marriage ceremonies are cheap, but divorces run a bit higher. In Santa Clara county, a curious reporter investigated, and found that marriage licenses cost $1 each. An average ordinary person can obtain a divorce for as low as $116—if there is no contest. The $16 is for filing and court fees, while the $100 goes to the attorney, minimum fee here.

Far West's Crew Hopes

By HARDIN BURNLEY

CALIFORNIA and Washington—with June and that blue ribbon Poughkeepsie regatta inked in mind—will enter an early season test of their racing boat strength soon and, should either be badly beaten, the losers may not go East. Last year both made poor showings at Poughkeepsie. This season Coach "Ky" Ebricht of California and "Al" Ulbrickson, of Washington, are confident that their crews will be big improvements on their 1930 boats, though Berkeley advises aent the Golden Bear oarsmen are rather pessimistic compared with what expert observers in Seattle report concerning the Husky sweeps.

Seattle rowing sages are inclined to echo the old and popular belief that "athletic success runs in cycles" and, in that accord, "Washington is about due again to dominate intercollegiate rowing in the U. S." The last time those Huskies outrowed the cream of American crews at Poughkeepsie was in 1926. They were second to Columbia in both 1927 and 1929, and next to Navy in 1922 and 1925. Their big victory years were in 1923 and '24 when Ed Leader, now coaching Yale, was the inspiration and moulder of at least one of the greatest varsity eight evers.

Leader's transfer to the East synchronized with the comparative decline of Washington rowing success and, significantly enough, it marked the beginning, or rather the full swing, of another cycle of brilliant Yale water triumphs.

Why Commute?

Why travel back and forth to your employment, which is here in Bristol, when such desirable dwellings are to be obtained here at such reasonable rents? It will pay any individual to investigate!

Work Where You Live and Live Where You Work.

If you are employed in Bristol you should live here. It will be less expensive and there are numerous other advantages derived from making your home in the town where you are employed.

You will save many hours a year which are now spent in traveling and you will have more time with your family.

The saving in money will also be considerable. Add to that which you are now paying for rent the amount which you spend in traveling back and forth to your employment here. You'll be surprised at the total. Rent a house here at a moderate rental and bank the difference.

Houses.

Comfortable dwellings, well situated and at moderate rents are to be found in that portion of Bristol which is immediately adjacent to the P. R. R. passenger station.

These houses make ideal homes and consist of six rooms with bath.

Conveniences.

They are heated by hot-air furnaces with a direct pipe leading to every room. They are lighted with electricity and are equipped with sewer, municipal water and gas.

Each room is well lighted and yet the space devoted to windows is not excessive.

Front porches are another attractive feature as is also a small rear yard where children can play in safety away from the perils of traffic.

Houses such as these would rent for considerably more in any city, where the conveniences would not surpass those offered here.
